Plenty of Proof

From People You Know—From Norway Citizens

The greatest skeptic can hardly fail to be convinced by evidence like this. It is impossible to produce better proof of merit than the testimony of residents of Norway, of people who can be seen at any time. Read the following case of it:

M. M. Kilgore, Danforth Street, Norway, says: "I had backache and rheumatic pains for more than a year, caused by disordered kidneys. My kidneys acted irregularly and I was so lame and sore across the small of my back I could hardly stand. At night I rested but little, and was feeling miserable most of the time. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at F. P. Stone's Drug Store and a few boxes cured me."

Permanent Results

Over seven years later Mr. Kilgore said: "I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills again as I am still a firm believer in them. The cure Doan's gave me has proven permanent."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kilgore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

THE number of conveniently located Socony gasoline stations is always increasing. All over historic New England and New York State, Socony service has grown with every community.

The Socony standard of service has always been to furnish Socony products wherever the need for them—however small—was manifested.

As a result, the scope of this service has been constantly broadened. The public requires motor fuel and oils of Socony quality. Motorists demand them because they are uniformly clean and efficient—none better are produced today.

Those most interested in gasoline economy—large users—have found that the regular use of one standard motor fuel of uniform quality gives the greatest satisfaction over long periods. There is less carbonization, a permanent carburetor adjustment is possible as well as more accurate checking of mileage.

You can fill up regularly with Socony gasoline almost anywhere from Eastport, Maine, to Lockport, New York, and from Long Island to the Canadian border. Begin today!

Look for the red, white and blue Socony sign.

6½ Per Cent. and Safety

The dividends on Central Maine Power Company 7 per cent. Preferred Stock have been paid without interruption 55 times.

They give good promise of being paid without interruption through all time.

The Company manufactures a commodity that is in demand: power. The demand keeps right up, through good times and better.

The Company supplies a territory that is prosperous and that should grow steadily to industrial preeminence—due to its available hydro-electric power and settled labor conditions.

The Company supplies a great variety of industries, more than 100 kinds, so that its earnings are but little disturbed by shut-downs in one or several lines of business.

Certainly all those who invest in Central Maine Preferred can feel very confident that though they may not be getting the 8 per cent. and 10 per cent. that others offer, they should continue to get 6½ per cent. net through all time.

A polite young man surrendered his seat to a strange young lady—with hesitation.

"What's the matter with you," asked his companion, "don't you know that isn't being done this season?"

"I know it isn't—but standing saves the creases in my trousers," replied the polite young man as he gazed down at a practically bagged pair of knees.

Our idea of this situation is that it must be aggravating when a fellow has to take such precautions to save his appearance.

HER FIVE YEARS' TROUBLE ENDED

Mrs. Bunten Does All the Work Of Her 18-Room House Since Tanlac Built Her Up

"All my troubles have left me since I began taking Tanlac and am enjoying better health than I have in five years," was the statement made recently by Mrs. J. R. Bunten, of 875 Congress St., Portland, Me.

"I had suffered so long that I did not seem to care for anything and life was hardly worth living," continued Mrs. Bunten. "My digestion was so bad that I had practically lost my appetite and what little I did eat soured on my stomach and kept me in misery for hours. My nerves were so terribly upset that a night's rest was nearly impossible for I would roll and toss until it was early morning before I could close my eyes to sleep. I got up every morning weak and tired-out and feeling so miserable that my housework was a burden. I tried many different medicines, but none of them did me any good and I was growing worse and worse all the time in spite of everything I could do.

"As I had heard so many people talking about Tanlac I made up my mind to give it a trial. I have taken only two bottles, but they have made such a wonderful change in my condition that already I feel like a different person entirely. My appetite has returned and I can eat whatever I want, as I am no longer troubled with indigestion in any form. My nerves are as steady as a clock and I sleep just as soundly as can be from the time I go to bed until it is time to get up. And of mornings I feel so fine that I am doing all my housework in this house of eighteen rooms, and I don't get tired one bit except in a natural way. I have regained my vitality and energy and I give Tanlac credit for it all."

Tanlac is sold in Norway by A. L. Clark Drug Co., in West Paris by S. T. White, and by O. H. Haskell, Sweden, R. F. D. from Harrison.

Electric Railroad

June 5, 1920.

Hon. A. J. Stearns, Esq.,
Norway, Maine.

Dear Judge Stearns:

I have been waiting to get something definite from the Central Maine Power Company people before writing you. The situation now is this: Mr. Wyman says they have no intention of rehabilitating the electric road between Norway and South Paris but that he is trying to work out a proposition with the Grand Trunk by which he will be permitted to run electric cars for passengers over their line between the two villages and that next week he expects to have an interview with the Grand Trunk people on this proposition; also that if this proposition does not go through and a concrete road is built between Norway and Paris he expects to provide a trackless motor car for use on this highway between the two villages. That is the situation so far as the company is concerned. Whether or not it is worth while to try and get any better arrangement through the Public Utilities Commission is a practical question which you are just as well if not better fitted to judge of than I am. Knowing the Commission as I do I should not feel that we had much chance to accomplish anything through it, but I am willing to try if you think it is advisable.

Very truly yours,
W. R. Fattangall.

July 2, 1920.

Public Utilities Commission,
Augusta, Maine.

RE: Oxford Electric Company

Gentlemen:

As one of the attorneys representing the towns of Norway and South Paris in the above entitled matter, I am writing to call the attention of the Commission to what I am aware they already know: namely, that the Oxford Electric Company having sold out to the Central Maine Power Co., that the case should now be considered from the standpoint of this new status.

I understand that the case is now pending before you and in as much as you have all the facts, it seems to me that you should render a decision based upon the conditions as they now exist.

I wish to call your attention further to the fact, that in your previous opinions as rendered, you have allowed the Oxford Electric Company to practically abandon the operation of their road because of their financial condition. We think you know what the financial condition of the Central Maine Power Co. is and whether this same excuse can be allowed them.

The whole question is, and it seems to me that it is incumbent upon you to render a new decision without further delay and in the interest of common justice to the people of this community. Trusting you will give me an early and responsive reply, I am

Very truly,
A. J. Stearns.

July 15, 1920.

Albert J. Stearns, Esq.,
Attorney at Law,
Norway, Maine.

Dear Bro. Stearns:

The Commission is in receipt of your letter of July 2, 1920, in regard to the street railway between Norway and South Paris. The letter came while I was personally absent, and since my return I have been waiting an opportunity to see Mr. Wyman of the Central Maine Power Company. I took up with him several weeks ago this matter of street railway service, and he assured me that insofar as the company could, they would attempt to work out some way of giving service. I saw him yesterday, and he tells me that he took up with Grand Trunk officials five or six weeks ago the matter of electrifying the Grand Trunk track between the South Paris station and Norway, and followed his suggestion up with several letters and several telephone conversations with H. P. Sweetser, of Portland, the local counsel. You and I know that the Grand Trunk moves rather slowly, and it was only very recently that Mr. Wyman was able to get any definite arrangement for an interview. On Wednesday of this week a representative of the Oxford Electric Company, sent by Mr. Wyman, was to see some of the officials of the Grand Trunk in Montreal, and discuss with them this matter of electrification. As I understand Mr. Wyman's proposition, it is to run electric cars from the South Paris station to Norway, and by means of a connection between the electric and the steam railroad track at Norway run the electric cars in Norway as far as the new street and new track go. The balance of the track and overhead construction, as is, as you know, not in shape to warrant use, and Mr. Wyman does not feel that an investment of what he believes will approximate $35,000 would be warranted.

As to your proposition that the Central Maine Power Company is in an entirely different situation than the Oxford Electric Company, I think that the Grand Trunk is not to lose sight of the fact that there might be a question as to whether the Central Maine Power Company should undertake to render street railway service between South Paris and Norway at a loss, which loss would have to be borne generally by the customers of the Central Maine Power Company. In other words, would it be lawful to require those persons at Augusta, for instance, who are light customers of the Central Maine Power Company, to contribute through additional rates to a deficit in the operation of a street railway between South Paris and Norway. I do not wish to be understood as saying that the Oxford Electric Company, which of course required to perform its public duties, should not under changed conditions carry out as a part of its public duties its obligation to render street railway service. I do, however, think that you will perhaps agree that other customers of the Central Maine Power Company would have to be considered if the position is to be taken that the Central Maine Power Company is obliged to carry out as a separate institution all of the obligations of its subsidiary companies.

I hope, however, that Mr. Wyman will be able to work out something that should be reasonably satisfactory to your people. I think I have said to you personally that we realize acutely the extreme inconvenience of withdrawal of this service where it was at one time rendered, and that we desire to assist in every way in either having the service resumed or some reasonable substitute provided.

As to electric car service from the South Paris station to Norway and its extension down as far as the new highway goes, I realize that this is not exactly the same as would be service along the line of the electric way, especially in the village of South Paris. It is, however, true that this service, if it could be rendered, would be equally as convenient as would steam railroad service on the present tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway between South Paris Station and Norway Station. In other words, if there was no electric railway, and only a steam railroad to be relied upon for transportation, parties desiring to go from one village to the other would have to go from their homes or places of business to the station, and leave the train at the station. While this is not equal to street railway traffic along the main thoroughfare, it is the same service being obtained between many communities where no electric railroad exists.

Of course this matter is now all in the air, and I am only giving you these general thoughts. Please do not understand me as in any way foreclosing any rights which either of these villages has or in any way announcing a conclusion to which we have come. I am simply arguing the matter out with you in a friendly way, and my mind is open to any suggestion, and I think you will believe that I should try and be reasonable.

Very sincerely yours,

Albert J. Stearns, Esq.,

Gentlemen:
The Commission is in receipt of letter from Mr. W. S. Wyman, copy of which we are enclosing.

From this letter and from talks that I have had with Mr. Wyman, I judge it is to take this matter up with the people of Norway and South Paris, and I wish you would keep the Commission in touch with the situation so that if there are any matters which you desire to call to our attention, we would be ready and willing to assist in every way possible.

Very sincerely yours,
Benj. F. Cleaves, Chairman.

Augusta, Me., July 16, 1920.

B. F. Cleaves, Esq.,
Chairman, Public Utilities Commission,
Augusta, Maine.

Dear Sir:

Confirming the statements that I made to the Commission Tuesday morning, July 13th, regarding the electric railway service between South Paris and Norway:

The Central Maine Power Co. acquired control of the Oxford Electric Co. April 29, 1920 and this railway matter was one of the first that engaged our attention, and on May 4th I looked over the situation in Norway and Paris and talked with a considerable number of the business men who have been active in trying to get service resumed on this railroad. The impression which I received at that time was that the people of Norway were very anxious to have service resumed, but that the people in South Paris were indifferent.

It seemed to me that it was unnecessary and impractical attempt to maintain two lines of railroad (The Grand Trunk steam road and the Oxford County's Electric road) between these two villages and bear the expense of maintaining the tracks, keeping them free from snow, etc.

I suggested that an arrangement be made to operate the electric service over the steam railroad track. This did not appear to arouse much enthusiasm.

I also suggested that the problem might be worked out by operating a trackless trolley bus between the two villages.

Immediately after this I began trying to get at the right people in the Grand Trunk organization and on May 25th had an interview with Mr. Sweetser and Mr. McNaughton. Mr. McNaughton, who I understand, has some authority in the matter, expressed himself as quite desirous of getting rid of the passenger service between Norway and Paris and thought if this were done they could discontinue the maintenance of the two main tracks which they now keep in South Paris and do the freight work with one of their local main line freight locomotives.

Mr. McNaughton said that he would bring this matter to the attention of the Committee who deal with such things as quickly as possible and that they could see our representative in Portland or Montreal during the following week.

I heard nothing further from them and telephoned Mr. Sweetser several times. He said that Mr. McNaughton was trying to get attention for the matter but had been unable to do so. Finally I got an appointment with Mr. Fish in Montreal for the 14th. Our Mr. Longfellow was there on that day and reports that the Grand Trunk is not willing to divide the service between the two towns but wants us to take the freight as well as the passenger service.

This would involve coming under the Inter-state Commerce Commission, maintaining the track and keeping it free from snow, and on the figures shown me by the Grand Trunk must mean a loss of something like $15,000 per year. I do not see how we can either do this or operate an independent electric road between the two towns. If the Grand Trunk would maintain their track and operate their own freight service, allowing us to put on a trolley wire, bond the track and operate a one-man car between the two villages, they keeping the track free from snow and maintaining it, I understand they would save something like $40, per day and I think we might manage to pretty nearly break even. I wish this might be brought about.

Yours very truly
W. S. Wyman, Treas.

July 21, 1920.

Hon. Benjamin F. Cleaves,
Chairman of the Public Utilities Commission,
Augusta, Maine.

Dear Brother Cleaves:

I am in receipt of your letter of July 15 commenting somewhat at length on the street railway situation between Norway and South Paris. Also have your letter of July 20 enclosing copy of letter from W. S. Wyman, Treasurer of the Central Maine Power Co., in regard to the same subject.

I feel that it is useless for me to express my views to you at any length as the facts are all before you, and also in view of the further fact that I did express in my previous letter my convictions in this matter.

This controversy has been dragging along for more than two and one-half years and has been pending before your Commission during all that time. One session of the Legislature has passed since the matter was first brought to your attention. An attempt was made at that time to change the law so that you might make a decision favorable to the Oxford Electric Co., if you chose to do so, and have legal authority therefor. The Legislature refused to pass such a law and now for two years the matter has been dangling in the air.

I feel that the public, who are interested in this service, have been extremely patient, and I now feel that it is the duty of The Public Utility Commission, of which you are the chairman, to make a real decision, whether it be favorable to the citizens of this community or to The Central Maine Power Co., which has now taken over the franchise and property of the Oxford Electric Company, and assumed its obligations.

If you will actually make a decision, I believe that either party, feeling that they are aggrieved thereby, might get to the courts and have the matter adjudicated. To be perfectly frank with you, I believe that this is just what should be done and done now.

Either the Central Maine Power Co. is under obligations to restore this service or it is not under such an obligation, and it is your duty, I believe, to declare whether they shall be allowed to virtually abandon and still retain the corporate privileges granted the Oxford Electric Co. It is desirable, indeed, it is imperative in the interest of justice, that this be done, now, as the question of a permanent street is vitally connected with the proposition.

The towns of Paris and Norway are both contemplating immediate action in regard to the improvement of the street over which these tracks run, and there should be no further delay on the part of the Commission in rendering a real decision.

I hope I have made myself plain to you without appearing to be abrupt. Assuring you that I appreciate your letter of July 15, as above referred to, and all the courtesies which you have shown me in the past, I am

Very truly,
Albert J. Stearns.

A conference was held Monday afternoon at the office of the Carroll, Jellerson Shoe Co. between Mr. Whiting and Mr. Clark, two representatives of the Central Maine Power Co., and a representative body of the citizens of Norway and South Paris, for the discussion and consideration of the electric railroad situation.

It was agreed by all that it was highly desirable, if not imperative, that some definite conclusion be reached immediately, in order to avoid the possibility of conflict with the cement street contract which is about to be consummated.

Mr. Whiting, speaking for the Central Maine Power Co., stated that his company was ready to consider some reasonable proposition for restoring some sort of transportation service for the accommodation of the public, and suggested three possible alternatives as a solution of the difficulty:

First: A trackless trolley, which he admitted would be in the nature of an experiment as nothing of the kind has ever been operated in this country, but which is said to be practical and used to some extent in certain parts of Europe. And further suggested that it would be quite unique for this community to try the experiment and be the first in the country to attempt its operation. This would be a car of about the capacity of an ordinary trolley car, propelled by electricity by means of a flexible arm connected with an overhead trolley wire, but running on wheels similar to those with which an auto truck or heavy bus is equipped. The flexible arm would permit travel over any part of the road bed, turning out for traffic, etc. This proposition was not looked upon, by those present, with general favor. Many expressing the view that it would be very little, if any, improvement over an ordinary auto bus.

Second: To rehabilitate the old electric road bed and run a one man car, with a ten cent fare, over the entire distance covered by the old route. The citizens of the two communities defraying whatever necessary expense was entailed by restoring the Grand Trunk crossing near the station. This service to be tried out for a year or so to see whether it could be made to pay or to break even, with the expenses under careful and up-to-date business methods.

It developed that the old frog, which was taken out shortly after the Oxford Electric Co. discontinued service, was still in existence and had been in use but a comparatively short time prior to its being taken out, and it was suggested that it would be entirely suitable to restore. In which event representatives of the Central Maine Power Co. stated that there would be no expense to the communities in the restoration of this service.

The details regarding the extent of rehabilitation, equipment, etc., Mr. Whiting was not in position to take up. But assured those present that he would return in a few days with an engineer of the company prepared to bring the proposition to a definite conclusion.

Those present felt that this was the first time, since the electric road troubles began, that they had been met in a spirit of fairness and co-operation, and were much encouraged with the outlook for immediate restoration of the service for at least a period of one year, during which time the company would give the matter a thorough trial as to whether it could be made to pay or not.
